

Working at Sea

What kinds of maritime jobs are there?

A maritime job is a job that relates to the sea in some way. The sea provides many people with ways of earning a living in lots of different industries such as leisure, energy, fishing, defence, science and much more. During your time on board this week you may have seen some examples of the kinds of jobs people can do on and around the East Coast.

How many different kinds of off-shore (at sea) jobs can you think of?

Lots of maritime jobs are shore-based. Can you think of any?

In the past 20 years the East Coast has seen the development of big windfarms out at sea. What sort of jobs are involved with building and running these?

What are advantages and disadvantages of working at sea?

Which maritime jobs do you think would be the most interesting to do?

